discover our valley

Step into the Inanda Valley on Durban's doorstep and have the experience of a lifetime visiting accessible, fun, safe tourist attractions.

Get active on the water or the trails around the Inanda Dam and surrounding mountains and feel the local pulse by meeting friendly locals, listening to jazz or eating and drinking locally. Or rediscover Inanda's heritage sites to remind yourself why Nelson Mandela chose to vote here in 1994, in the true cradle of South Africa's freedom.

There is a wealth of vibrant community life, history and natural wonder to discover in the Inanda Valley and the wider INK area (Inanda, Ntuzuma and KwaMashu).

INANDA 'Discover our valley' is a partnership of Africa!gnite, the Durban Green Corridor, Durban Tourism, WOZA Enanda, the local Community Tourism Organisation, proactive local entrepreneurs and the INK area-based management of eThekweni. Together, we have launched exciting new routes through the area. These include the trails, canoeing, mountain biking and guided walks pioneered by Durban Green Corridor, a socio-economic and environmental development project of eThekweni.

WOWZULU Responsible Tourism, an initiative of Africa!gnite, discovered a wealth of 'hidden gems' in the vibrant semi-urban community: places to eat, drink, hear music, engage with friendly locals to share stories, stay overnight and experience local culture.

Deeper into the valley, where rural homesteads nestle in the folds of gentle hills, tourists can visit picturesque 'rondawels' homes to have a meal, watch women artists and crafters at work or learn a new craft skill.

Above the valley, visitors can rise onto the mountain ridges, breathe in the mountain air and drink in endless views down to Durban and the sea beyond.

All this in addition to the fascinating historical sites such as the Ohlange Institute, Gandhi Settlement and Inanda Seminary.

The logical starting point for any visitor to INANDA is the WOWZULU Marketplace at the Ohlange Institute, as tourists' warm welcome in the Valley. This is where you can drink great coffee, hear stories, buy local craft and gifts, and find out where to go and what to do.

You can also meet a guide who will take you from here to explore further. And centrally in Durban, tourists can get information about INANDA or pick up a guide at the Durban Green Hub at the mouth of the Umgeni River.
